DISCOVER AND PLAN: TROPICAL GARDENS

With its sub-tropical microclimate, Penzance forms a giant hot house for exotic plants. Throughout history, landowners and garden designers have taken advantage of these conditions to create stunning displays of natural beauty which continue to this day.

MORRAB GARDENS

Originally created in 1841 these lovely public gardens are a haven of Mediterranean and sub-tropical plants. The gardens contain Morrab Library and feature some lovely Grade II architectural structures including a Victorian bandstand and fountain. Open all year.
