About the artists:

Jonathan Barritt is much in demand as a soloist and chamber musician both in the UK and abroad. From 1995 to 2001 he was a member of the Allegri String Quartet; and he joined the Coull String Quartet in 2015. He now divides his time between the Coull Quartet and teaching at the Royal College of Music.

Duncan Honeybourne has played extensively throughout the UK, Ireland and in Europe. He has given recitals at international festivals in Belgium and Switzerland and has premiered over 70 new solo piano works, as well as reviving many forgotten scores by composers of earlier generations. He broadcasts frequently on BBC Radio 3 and abroad, and has made many recordings.

Rupert Marshall-Luck appears as soloist and recitalist throughout the UK and mainland Europe as well as in South Africa and the USA. His extensive discography includes many World Première recordings as well as conspectuses of the complete music for violin and piano of Herbert Howells and Hubert Parry; and his solo performances have been frequently broadcast on BBC Radio 3 and abroad.

Joseph Spooner's diverse career has taken him from the recording studio to concert platforms in Europe, Russia, New York, Mexico, and New Zealand. His rehabilitation of unjustly neglected works, especially by English and Russian composers, has been warmly welcomed by critic and audiences alike. Joseph was elected an Associate of the Royal Academy of Music in 2012.

Founded in 1985 by David Cheetham and now directed by Andrew Wyatt, the forty-strong St Mary's Singers has well-established links with Truro Cathedral, regularly singing Cathedral services and performing concerts throughout the year. Sacred and secular concert and recorded repertoire spans the centuries, and the choir frequently collaborates with local instrumentalists and composers.
