

Halloweek at Camel Creek

Spooktacular thrills and frighteningly good fun is on offer at top family attraction, Camel Creek Adventure Park (near Wadebridge, Cornwall), this Halloween with a whole week of tricks, treats and scary surprises .

From 23rd to 31st October, mini ghosts and ghouls can step back in time on a Haunted Trail and come face-to-face with hair-raising characters from the Bodmin Beast to Cornish sea serpent, Morgawr. In the spooky graveyard, there's bones ready for excavation and only the brave will discover what lurks in the darkness of the grotto.

Throughout the hair-raising Halloweek, bold adventurers can also visit Camel Creek's scariest residents at the Reptile House and Crocodile Corner and face their fears in the House of Horrors Scare Zone.

A specially created Trick or Treat game will be available to visitors of all ages at the park's show area – but be warned, knock on one of the doors and you might get a surprise with the yuck factor! Over in the Pumpkin Patch visitors can claim a free pumpkin to take home and there's a chance to create freaky make-and-take refreshments in the Chocolate Factory.

This is all on top of Camel Creek's usual thrilling rides, from the sky-high Vertigo and Thunder Falls Log-flume to the brand-new Magic Dragon roller coaster sure to make the whole family scream.

Test your nerve and book online today at www.camelcreek.co.uk. Pre-booking essential.
