Sacramento's own Deftones have been announced for the 2025 Eden Sessions and will play a show at the Eden Project in Cornwall on Thursday June 26, 2025. This is one of only a handful of shows they will be playing in the UK next year.

Formed in Sacramento, California in 1988, the multi-platinum GRAMMY Award-winning Deftones are one of the most influential alternative bands in the world.

The band, comprised of Chino Moreno, Frank Delgado, Stephen Carpenter, and Abe Cunningham, has released nine studio albums, with the most recent release being GRAMMY-nominated Ohms. Deftones' culture is revered as one of the most fervent that exists.

Rita Broe, managing director of the Eden Sessions, said: "Deftones are one of the most exciting, innovative and powerful live bands in the world and it is a privilege to welcome them to the Eden Sessions.

"We know there is a lot of love in the south west for this band so it's fantastic to be able to bring genuine legends to the Eden Project."

Tickets for Deftones at the Eden Project on Thursday, June 26, 2025 cost £56 plus a £7.30 booking fee and are available through www.edensessions.com.

Tickets are now on sale to Inside Track pass-holders. The general ticket sale is at 9am on Friday, December 13, 2024.

Deftones are the fourth act to be announced for the 2025 Eden Sessions. Already confirmed shows for next summer's Sessions are Gary Barlow (June 18), The Script (June 25) and Madness (July 12). More artists will be announced soon.

In September 2019 the Eden Project and global live events company AEG Presents announced a new partnership, Eden Sessions Ltd, to run the Eden Sessions.
