Brace yourselves, Cornwall. Irish hip-hop trailblazers Kneecap are set to bring their riotous energy to the Eden Sessions on July 4, 2025, marking their first-ever show in Cornwall. They'll be joined by none other than Mike Skinner (DJ Set), the genre-defying mastermind behind The Streets.

Few acts have ignited the global music scene quite like Kneecap, comprised of Móglaí Bap, Mo Chara, and DJ Próvaí. What began as a raw and rebellious movement in West Belfast has exploded into an international phenomenon. Their critically-acclaimed debut album, Fine Art, was produced by English DJ Toddla T and features an all-star line-up, including Annie Mac, Fontaines D.C.'s Grian Chatten and Tom Coll, Lankum's Radie Peat, and Jelani Blackman.

Their meteoric rise has earned the Irish rap trio a BAFTA win and five BAFTA nominations, alongside two Oscar nominations, for their biopic of the same name, and has found them storming some of the world's biggest stages. From Glastonbury to Jimmy Fallon's Tonight Show, sold-out tours across Ireland, the UK, and the US, and an ongoing raucous 2025 tour of Australia and New Zealand as we speak, have cemented the group as one the most exciting live music acts to see this year.

Blending razor-sharp Irish-language lyricism with hard-hitting beats and no shortage of satire, Kneecap's revolutionary approach to hip-hop has sparked both political controversy and unwavering fan devotion.

Kneecap will be joined by The Streets frontman, Mike Skinner, who will be putting on one of his iconic DJ sets for the Eden Sessions crowd. In the same way that Kneecap are defining an era in Irish music culture, The Streets defined the 00's in Britain. Skinner took his place behind the decks almost 15 years ago during a hiatus from The Streets. He's taken his sets around the UK and Europe, blending high-energy grime and garage.

Rita Broe, Eden Sessions managing director, said: "Kneecap are one of the most talked about acts in the world right now. Their live shows are a force of nature – unfiltered, unpredictable and utterly electrifying. We're thrilled to welcome both them and Mike Skinner to the Eden Sessions for the first time."

Tickets for Kneecap and Mike Skinner (DJ Set) at the Eden Project on Friday July 4, 2025, cost £50 plus a £6.50 booking fee and are available through www.edensessions.com.

Tickets are on sale to Inside Track pass-holders now. The general ticket sale is at 2:30pm on Thursday, March 27, 2025.

In September 2019 the Eden Project and global live events company AEG Presents announced a new partnership, Eden Sessions Ltd, to run the Eden Sessions.

In January 2025, Volvo Car UK extended its partnership as the Presenting Partner of the Eden Sessions and Official Electric Car Partner of the Eden Project.
